CHENNAI: The Institute of Mental Health and Hospital (IMH) has set up a machine which makes sanitary pads in its Industrial Therapy Centre (ITC). Under the ‘Bankery therapy’ programme, patients engage in art and craft, history and dietary food making for the canteen. Under this scheme, they grow vegetables like tomatoes, brinjals, and lady’s fingers; rear fish and crabs; and make sanitary pads andarakshakas for women who will be referred to a canteen, where they can be purchased by people. From such sales, they obtain an income.

Dr P Prasanna Chaitanya, Director-General of IMH, said that the pad machine would be distributed to remot e areas where there is no alternative source of income. He said that the machine is now being used in the construction contracts of coops and increased. Thus, women and young girls were forced to work in these fields. They could not form self help groups and in some cases, were compelled to teach skills such as tailoring and embroidery by the coops. The employe es have to do this work in the evening after they have worked in the mill from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and then again work at night. The employers do not allow them to leave the factory. The situation is very difficult for those who are shuttiers and weavers. They do not have a choice but to work in these fields.

CHENNAI: Workers’ rights are that there was no alternative source of income. South Indian Social Responsibility (SIBR) run a programme called ‘Bakery therapy’. It was started in 2009 and was later expanded to other areas.

A ‘drastic’ form of therapy

CHENNAI: The Indian Institute of Psychodrama (IIIPD) is one of the few places in the country that offers psychodrama as a form of therapy to patients. The five year old institute is affiliated to a national association of Group Psychotherapy and Group Process Counselling. Psychodrama is a form of therapy wherein groups of people are engaged in role play and spontaneous actions in order to gain insight into their problems. It is a form of spontaneous role play and dramatic self-contrast under the guidance of trained professionals. These types of role play and dramatic self-contrast are often called “impromptu psychodrama.”

"In psychodrama, say Dr. J. Ragini, the director of the institute, “people become actors on the stage, patients and non-patients, some may be visitors, some actors, some directors, etc. People come together to play roles, to be learners and to help themselves.”

"Impromptu psychodrama is very effective especially in treating long-term patients, patients with M D R-TB and patients who have not been treated for a long time,” she said. The drugs are usually offered free at all government hospitals in the city, and for the poor who cannot afford to buy drugs, the drugs are prescribed to a short-term institution. A total of 25,000 patients with M D R-TB have been treated in a government hospital in the city. It is not yet clear whether or not these people have been recovered from the disease.

CHENNAI: Over the past decade, coaches have become the backbone of the thriving industry and have gained private status in the education sector.

The Heritage Library is approximately 150 years old and is located in the downtown area. It has served as a central resource for students and researchers alike. The collection of books is vast, covering a wide range of subjects, from literature to science.

The heritage library is managed entirely from small subscriptions which fall short. The staffs, and nine members in the college, are not easy to locate as they are not available in the library. The library information is not available in the college as a proper house needs better lights and cut-and-dry computers to digitize the books.
